

SCCA Approves NASA Comp License for Club Racing

Posted by spec944#74 - 09 May 2008 08:51

Hey guys, I got this email today from SCCA:

SCCA Board Approves NASA Licenses For Club Racing

TOPEKA, Kan. (May 9, 2008) â Sports Car Club of Americaâs Board of Directors approved today at its face-to-face meeting in Topeka the approval of National Auto Sport Association licenses for Regional Club Racing competition, effective immediately.

The NASA Competition License joins those of 13 other organizations approved for Regional competition. Any of these license holders may participate in a Regional event, providing they are a full, First Gear, family or weekend member.

The full list of organizations with licenses approved for competition are:

BMW CCA

CACC

FIA

HSR

ICSCC

IMSA

MCSCC

NASA

PCA

Ontario Region CASC

SCCA Pro Racing

SVRA

VMC

Waterford Hills

West Canada Motorsports Association

Detailed information on the licenses approved for each organization is available in the SCCA General Competition Rules, section 3.1.5.

Sounds like an invitation to me, what do you think? You don't event have to pay for a comp license, just a regular membership.

Steve Marlow

=====