NASA race -- Autoclub Speedway, May 20/21
Posted by dancing944 - 25 Apr 2017 13:16

_____

Racers:

That was some very good racing this past weekend at Buttonwillow! I'm impressed with how close the class is, how tight the racing can be, and how competitive our field is. Add the enjoyable times off track, and this is really what spec racing is all about.

I'm starting the thread about the May event in Fontana now because I would like everyone to consider not just making sure they sign up, but renting a garage. Garages are not very expensive, and it's one place where having a garage can be a big plus. They are not expensive. And I would love to see us all paddocked together again, as we have done in the past there.

Everett

==

Re: NASA race -- Autoclub Speedway, May 20/21
Posted by JDeLira - 28 Apr 2017 11:59

_____

I'm signed up. Got a garage too! -JD

==

Re: NASA race -- Autoclub Speedway, May 20/21
Posted by code3pro - 03 May 2017 18:59

_____

Registered and have a garage space reserved, so hopefully we can all be together!

==

Re: NASA race -- Autoclub Speedway, May 20/21
Posted by gunner92 - 04 May 2017 21:36

_____

Hope to join you guys someday. We just starting our build and recently installed these Toyo tires . Lots of things to learn here.

Enjoy!

===

Re: NASA race -- Autoclub Speedway, May 20/21
Posted by dancing944 - 05 May 2017 10:13

_____

Don't forget to sign up today if you haven't already, so you can save $50.

I am working to make sure our garages are all adjacent.

Bound to be fun!

Everett

===

Re: NASA race -- Autoclub Speedway, May 20/21
Posted by reflexr - 15 May 2017 07:45

_____

Looks like we won't be running at ACS. I didn't realize it was my daughters Lacross championships weekend. We are already signed up for 944Spec at BW, thanks to Ryan. I will still come down to take my provisional test, and get the cage stamped and logbook updated. I gave up the garage as well. See you guys at BW!

===